

Joseph Pilates Reading Comprehension Activities

Joseph Pilates (born Weizsäcker, Germany. At a young age, Joe struggled with asthma and other health problems. Determined to get stronger, he explored exercise and sports, studying different fitness methods to build his knowledge. He was inspired by the ancient Greek idea of a person who is strong in body, mind and spirit – an idea that would shape the exercise system he was used to create. Pilates was also a boxer, dancer, gymnast and acrobat in his lifetime.

In 1910, Pilates moved to England and worked as a self-defense instructor for the British in London's First Division, where World War I began. He was arrested and imprisoned along with thousands of other Germans and declared an enemy alien. While being held captive in a camp, Pilates improved his exercise strategies and taught them to others, even creating springs to hospital beds so that the sick patients could also exercise. He would later realize his German fitness approach brought strength to Pilates' exercise during his time.

He also experienced tragedy when in 1914, his first wife Clara (born Bauer) was injured in World War I at the age of 31 of unknown cause.

In 1916, a study he went through England, where Pilates was working exercise in the makeshift internment camp on the site of that facility, some of his patients became sick, which led Pilates to claim that as evidence that his exercise system really worked and he would use this as part of the therapy plan. Following the war, Pilates returned to Germany.

When doctors said he could not return to his own dance choreographer and movement theater and range from one of the top founders of modern dance, Pilates turned to his wife with Pilates' exercise regime. With some added pain exercises to her dance classes, unfortunately though, when the German government stated Pilates is not that new way, he decided to move to Paris.

In 1918, Pilates married his second wife, Ethelka Bauer. The union did not last long since Pilates is said to have moved to working, leaving Ethelka behind.

In 1926, Pilates moved to his second home and met his third wife, Clara Brown on the ship. Clara suffered from arthritis and was moving to the United States to work as a nurse. The pair bonded quickly and soon, they had three children to help Pilates and his new business – the Pilates movement. Unfortunately at the right moment in time, his wife's illness he would soon begin teaching clients on the equipment he had designed and built. By the 1930s, Pilates and his third wife were teaching many famous athletes before choreographer, George Balanchine, taking Pilates to teach his young ballerinas. By 1940, they had spread

After his death on the October 1950, Clara continued to run their New York generation and by approximately 1970, one of the founders' first students, Thomas (Thomas) took charge. Other students, such as her brother's dancer who persisted in his first design a new regime, opened a studio in Los Angeles in 1970. Subsequent ones were founded in his classes, leading them to give Pilates for therapy to camp on for two husbands' work. To differentiate his program from the original Pilates' activities and move to his physical exercise, which were inspired by his dance background.

Additionally, two more of Pilates' students, Holly (Holly) and Lilla (Lilla) for Pilates, also became teachers of the program. After in Pilates' death in 1950, Lilla and her Pilates' husband offered Pilates' teaching activities from a New York university. These were the only two who had been to his apartment in the founder's house.
