Migration Development And Transnationalization:

Migration, Development, and Transnationalization Nina Glick Schiller, Thomas Faist, 2010-11-01 The relationship between migration and development is becoming an important field of study yet the fundamentals analytical tools conceptual framework political stance are not being called into question or dialogue This volume provides a valuable alternative perspective to the current literature as the contributors explore the contradictory discourses about migration and the role these discourses play in perpetuating inequality and a global regime of militarized surveillance The assumptions surrounding the asymmetrical transfers of resources that accompany migration are deeply skewed and continue to reflect the interests of the most powerful states and the institutions that serve their interests Those who seek to address the morass of development failure vitriolic attacks on immigrants or sanguine views about migrant agency are challenged by this volume to put aside their methodological nationalism and pursue alternative pathways out of the quagmire of poverty violence and fear that is enveloping the globe

The Migration-Development Nexus Thomas Faist, Margit Fauser, Peter Kivisto, 2011-04-28 This book examines current policy discussions around the migration development nexus and subjects them to rigorous conceptual and empirical criticism through a transnational lens placing the current re discovery of migrants as agents of development nexus into theoretical and historical perspective

Transnational Migration and Human Security Thanh-Dam Truong, Des Gasper, 2011-06-07 The volume places the migration development security nexus in the field of transnational studies Rather than treating these three categories as self evident the essays excavate aspects of power and privilege built into their governing frameworks and conflicting rationales apparent in practices of control Bringing together diverse experiences and case studies the volume highlights the problematic nature of maintaining distinct and disconnected frameworks of governance It argues for a new approach that demonstrates the significance and usefulness of comparative ethics in conceptualising migration from a human centered and gendered perspective in order to address the multi faceted and multi dimensional nature and meanings of security Transnational Migration Thomas Faist, Margit Fauser, Eveline Reisenauer, 2013-04-03. Increasing interconnections between nation states across borders have rendered the transnational a key tool for understanding our world. It has made particularly strong contributions to immigration studies and holds great promise for deepening insights into international migration. This is the first book to provide an accessible yet rigorous overview of transnational migration as experienced by family and kinship groups, networks of entrepreneurs, diasporas and immigrant associations. As well as defining the core concept, it explores the implications of transnational migration for immigrant integration and its relationship to assimilation. By examining its political, economic, social and cultural dimensions, the authors capture the distinctive features of the new immigrant communities that have reshaped the ethno-cultural mix of receiving nations including the US and Western Europe. Importantly, the book also examines the effects of transnationality on sending communities, viewing migrants as agents of political and economic development. This systematic and critical overview of transnational migration perfectly balances theoretical discussion with relevant examples and cases, making it an ideal book for upper-level students covering immigration and transnational relations in sociology, political science and globalization courses.

Entwicklung durch Migration? Laura Stielike, 2017-10-15. Geld und Wissenstransfers von Migrant_innen: Die Entwicklung in ihren Herkunftsländern und Zielländern stehen im Fokus der Debatte um Migration und Entwicklung. Vor dem Hintergrund der postkolonialen Beziehungen zwischen Kamerun und Deutschland beleuchtet Laura Stielike die komplexen Zusammenhänge von institutioneller Diskriminierung, migrantischem Diaspora-Engagement und der entwicklungspolitischen Nutzenbarmachung von Migration. Dabei wird Migration und Entwicklung als ein Netz von Diskursen, Institutionen und Subjektivierungsweisen verstanden und mittels einer Dispositivanalyse untersucht. Die Studie stellt den internationalen Diskurs und die nationalen Politiken im Feld von Migration und Entwicklung nachhaltig in Frage.

Migration and Transformation: Pirkko Pitkänen, Ahmet İçduygu, Deniz Sert, 2012-04-14. People's transnational ties and activities are acquiring ever greater importance and topicality in today's world. The focus of this book lies in the complex and multi-level processes of migrant transnationalism in four transnational spaces: India, UK, Morocco, France and Turkey, Germany and

Estonia Finland The main question is how people's activities across national borders emerge function and change and how are they related to the processes of governance in increasingly complex and interconnected world The book is based on the findings of a three year research project TRANS NET which brought together internationally acknowledged experts from Europe Asia and Africa As no single discipline could investigate all the components of the topic in question the project adopted a multi disciplinary approach among the contributors there are sociologists policy analysts political scientists social and cultural anthropologists educational scientists and economists The chapters show that people's transnational linkages and migration across national boundaries entail manifold political economic social cultural and educational implications Although political social economic educational transformations fostered by migrant transnationalism constitute the main topic of the book the starting assumption is that the large scale institutional and actor centred patterns of transformation come about through a constellation of parallel processes Routledge International Handbook of Diaspora Diplomacy Liam circulatory transnational migration best describes the unconventional migratory route of many contemporary Chinese migrants that is an unfinished set of circulatory movements that these migrants engage in between the homeland and various host countries Return migration step migration to a third destination and the astronauting strategy are all included within this circulatory migration movement wherein returning to the country of origin does not always mean to settle back to the homeland permanently while step migration also does not necessarily mean to re migrate to a third destination country for a permanent purpose Liu takes a longitudinal perspective to study Chinese migrants transnational movements and looks at their transnational migratory movements as a family matter and progressive and dynamic process using New Zealand as a primary case study She examines Chinese migrants initial motives for immigrating to New Zealand the driving forces behind their adoption of a transnational lifestyle which includes leaving New Zealand to return to China moving to a third country typically Australia or commuting across borders family related considerations inter generational dynamics in transnational migration as well as their future movement intentions Liu also discusses Chinese migrants conceptualisation of home citizenship identity and sense of belonging to provide a deeper understanding of their transnational migratory experiences

Transnational Migration and Childhood Naomi Tyrrell,Allen White,Caitriona Ni Laoire,Fina Carpena Mendez,2013-09-13 This book challenges the adult centric tendencies of migration research and policy which often overlooks children and young people's own experiences of migration. A wide range of international contributors provide careful analysis of the situations of children in contemporary transnational migratory contexts in the Global North and South. Drawing on studies with migrant children and young people in a variety of situations, Transnational Migration and Childhood makes a unique contribution to furthering our understandings of transnational childhoods. It explores the laws and policies that govern children and young people's experiences of transnational migration whilst foregrounding their own accounts of migration and transnationalism. The book shifts our attention away from dominant discourses of migrant children as victims towards the development of broader conceptualisations of transnational migration and childhood. It incorporates different migratory flows, a variety of sending and receiving contexts and child-centred perspectives. Transnational Migration and Childhood will be of interest to researchers and policy makers working in the fields of migration, asylum and childhood at local, national and transnational scales. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies. Transnational Labour Migration, Remittances and the Changing Family in Asia L. Hoang, B. Yeoh, 2015-05-13. The contributors investigate the interrelationships between migrant remittances and the family in Asia. They argue that in the context of Asian transnational labour migration, where remittances tend to become a primary currency of care, the making or breaking of the family unit is mainly contingent on how individuals handle remittance processes.
