James Jacob, Stewart E. Sutin, John C. Weidman, John L. Yeager, 2015-06-17 There seems to be renewed interest in having universities and other higher education institutions engage with their communities at the local national and international levels But what is community engagement Even if this interest is genuine and widespread there are many different concepts of community service outreach and engagement The wide range of activity encompassed by community engagement suggests that a precise definition of the community mission is difficult and organizing and coordinating such activities is a complex task This edited volume includes 18 chapters that explore conceptual understandings of community engagement and higher education reforms and initiatives intended to foster it Contributors provide empirical research findings including several case study examples that respond to the following higher education community engagement issues What is the community and what does it need and expect from higher education institutions Is community engagement a mission of all types of higher education institutions or should it be the mission of specific institutions such as regional or metropolitan universities technical universities community colleges or indigenous institutions while other institutions such as major research universities should concentrate on national and global research agendas and on educating internationally competent researchers and professionals How can a university be global and at the same time locally relevant Is it or should it be left to the institutions to determine the scope and mode of their community engagement or is a state mandate preferable and feasible If community engagement or community service are mandatory what are the consequences of not complying with the mandate How effective are policy mandates and university engagement for regional and local economic development What are the principal features and relationships of regionally engaged universities Is community engagement to be left to faculty members and students who are particularly socially engaged and locally embedded or is it or should it be made mandatory for both faculty and students How can community engagement be better integrated with the other two traditional missions of the university research and teaching Cover image The Towering Four fold Mission of Higher Education by Natalie Jacob to advocate and care for individuals families and aggregates This student friendly highly illustrated text engages students and by doing so eases students into readily applying public health principles along with evidence based practice nursing science and skills that promote health prevent disease as well as protect at risk populations What the 8th edition of this text does best is assist students in broadening the base of their knowledge and skills that they can employ in both the community and acute care settings while the newly enhanced ancillary resources offers interactive tools that allow students of all learning styles to master public health nursing

Building Health Workforce Capacity Through Community-Based Health Professional Education Institute of Medicine, Board on Global Health, Global Forum on Innovation in Health Professional Education, 2015-04-20 There is growing evidence from developed and developing countries that community based approaches are effective in improving the health of individuals and populations This is especially true when the social determinants of health are considered in the design of the community based approach With an aging population and an emphasis on health promotion the United States is increasingly focusing on community based health and health care Preventing disease and promoting health calls for a holistic approach to health interventions that rely more heavily upon interprofessional collaborations However the financial and structural design of health professional education remains siloed and largely focused on academic health centers for training Despite these challenges there are good examples of interprofessional community based programs and curricula for educating health professionals In May 2014 members of the Institute of Medicine's Global Forum on Innovation in Health Professional Education came together to substantively delve into issues affecting the scale up and spread of health professional education in communities Participants heard a wide variety of individual accounts from innovators about work they are undertaking and opportunities for education with communities In presenting a variety of examples that range from student community service to computer modeling the workshop aimed to stimulate discussions about how educators might better integrate education with practice in communities Building Health Workforce Capacity Through Community Based Health Professional Education summarizes the presentations and discussion of this event

Social Welfare Programs and Social Work Education at a Crossroads Antonio López Peláez, Annaline Keet, Chung Moon Sung, 2024-07-17 This book explores a key phenomenon that has been accelerated by the COVID 19 crisis namely the crossroads at which social welfare professionals find themselves This is a crossroads where on the one hand there is an accelerated digitalization process and a reorganization of social programs while on the other hand we are confronted by the basic challenge of designing social policies and their methods of evaluation that is the generation of robust data that will allow better evaluation of social projects and programs Rigorously analyzing the crossroads at which social welfare programs find themselves and the new demands for the education of professionals involved in social welfare programs several key issues can be discerned the theoretical debate surrounding the changes brought about by the COVID 19 pandemic and the process of redefining globalization in which we are immersed the challenges to be met by welfare programs and the good practices that are being implemented the key issue of how to generate more robust data in the field of social services and social protection how to increase the competencies of professionals through education in schools of social work Providing 15 newly written chapters drawn from both the global north and the global south it offers a set of recommendations to address the challenges of inequality and social inclusion in the coming years It will be of interest to all academics students and practitioners working in the fields of social work social welfare and social development United States Code United States,1995 Resources in Vocational Education ,1979 Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations for 2005 United States.
